Wire Mill Worker Is Fatally Injured

Preno Serventi, 30, Is Badly Crushed When Enmeshed In Wire Winder At Galvanizer Department Early Today

Severely crushed when caught in a wire winder in the nail and wire mill department of the steel plant at 1.30 o'clock this morning. Preno Serventi, 30, succumbed at six o'clock in the Dosco Emergency Hospital.

INQUEST TODAY

An inquest into the circumstances of his death will be held about 3.30 o'clock this afternoon before Dr. J. K. MacLeod, Coroner.

CAUGHT IN LOOP

Employed as wire puller in the galvanized department, Serventi, according to reports, was engaged in fixing a loop of wire around the winding block when he became enmeshed.

ASSOCIATES AID

His cries for help brought associates to his aid, but before he was released the wire had wrapped around his body three or four times.

Badly lacerated and crushed from the hips down, he was rushed to the hospital, and administered aid by Drs. W. R .MacRae, J. J. Roy and J. G. B. Lynch.

Shock and severity of the injuries proved too great, and he died about five hours after being admitted to the institution.

FIRST IN YEARS

The fatality, it was stated, was the first to occur in the wire-nail department in some years.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Serventi, Lingan Road, he was well known in the Whitney Pier district and popular among the younger fraternity, being active in St. Nicholas Italian parish circles.

He had been employed at the steel plant for the past ten years.

SURVIVORS

Besides his parents, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Leo Baldwin, Havelock St.; Sr. Mary Josepha, Antigonish; Theresa, at home; three brothers, Rocco, Frankie and Dominic.

Emilio Was King In Cape Breton

Dec 1, 1965

Ten years after his death, Emilio Pace's name still conjures pleasant memories for the many thousands who danced to his distinctive orchestra during his long reign as the king of the Cape Breton music world.

"I'm gonna give you the best I got", was Emilio's oft-kept promise to a generation which has never forgotten the Pace touch. Always the maestro, Emilio's blending of talent and style brought local music a class which has never been duplicated.

Groundwork for the Pace popularity was laid long before it reached its peak during the dance-conscious days of the Second World War. During the twenties, the Pace name was headlined on the vaudeville circuit when he and fellow-Sydneyite Dominic Nardocchio toured Canada as the Harmony Duo.

This week Dominic recalled the duo's travels in 1927-28 when they played many major Canadian theatres. A versatile duo, playing popular, semi-classical and classical music, the two had played most of the Maritimes and Quebec radio stations, in the days when radio was in its infancy.

At this stage, fate, in the form of the talking movie, was preparing to deal its death blow to vaudeville. The Harmony Duo was on the verge of signing a long-term contract with one of the major vaudeville circuits when the end came.

The duo performed afterwards with a number of fine symphony orchestras. They got together for the last time in 1950 for a CJCB-Radio broadcast.

Thursday of this week, (Dec. 2), marks the 10th anniversary of Emilio Pace's death. To mark the anniversary, old colleague Dominic Nardocchio brought The Highlander some prized photos of the Harmony Duet to be published "in memory of my good friend".

Nardocchio, (left) and Pace, made up popular Harmony Duo which toured the vaudeville circuits in the twenties.

FEATURED ON C.B.C. NETWORK

Emilio Pace, well known musician and orchestra leader, was the featured artist on the Wednesday evening recital series over the C.B.C.'s Maritime network. Mr. Pace was heard in a program of selections specially arranged for the guitar, which he says is his favorite instrument, although he is an accomplished trumpeter, mandolist and also handles the violin with ease.

His career as a guitarist began in his native Italy before he came to Canada in the 1920's. In Canada, Mr. Pace lived for a time in Montreal where he played in theatre orchestras and also for a recording company. However, since 1926, he has made his home in Sydney, where he played in the Strand orchestra in the days of Silent Movies and since the "Talkies" has been leader of his own dance band which has been recognized throughout the province.

Wednesday's recital originated in the studios of C.B.I., local CBC Station and the program included a Concertino and Valse Brillianteem compositions of Matteo Carcassi, the familiar "Come Back to Sorrento" and a Fantasie for Guitar composed by Mr. Pace.

The program was listened to with great interest by his many admirers.

THE ROARING 20's was the stage for this dashing duet. They started out in Sydney and played all over eastern Canada. For those whose memory doesn't go back to those good old days.

JEWER-CRITCH: In the Salvation Army Whitney Pier Citadel, on Saturday, Aug. 8, Capt. Sol Jewer, uncle of the groom, united in holy bonds of matrimony Lieut. Judith Elizabeth Critch eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Critch, and Lieut. Henry William Jewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jewer, Sr. Yellow and white mums decorated the altar.

To the strains of the weddig march rendered by Mrs. C. Lake, nianist, the bride entered the citadel with her father who gave her in marriage. She wore the Salvation Army uniform with a white cord and carried a cascade of red roses.

Attending the bride were her sister, Miss Jean Critch, as maid of honorand Miss Maxine Croucher and Mrs. Jessie Farr as bridesmaids. They wore the uniform of the Salvation Army and carried bouquets of white and yellow mums. Miss Glenda Critch, sister of the bride, and Miss Robin Jewer, sister of the groom, as flower girls, wore similiar blue and yellow nylon dresses and carried nosegays of summer flowers. Master Kevin Critch was ring bearer.

Wilfred Manning attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Earl Head and Capt. Elmer Pavey.

Michael Poole, uncle of the groom, was standard bearer and Miss Dorothy MacNeilly was the soloist.

The bride's mother wore pink nylon jersey with white accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations and the bridegroom's mother wore the uniform of the Salvation Army and a corsage of red and white carnations.

A reception was held in the Junior Hall. A turkey supper was served to two hundred guests under the supervision of Mrs. Vi Thorne, who was assisted by Mrs. Ina Thorne, Mrs. Vivian Thorne, Mrs. Marge Thorne, Mrs. Florence Keel and Mrs. Louise Head. Miss Lillian Travis, cousin of the bride, and Miss Eleanor Marshall served the wedding party and serving the guests were Misses Rosie Mansfield, Phyllis Mansfield, Linda Manning, Brenda Thorne, Donna Thorne and Maude Carson. Mrs. G. Rowe presided at the silver tea service. Two three-tier wedding cakes, made by Mrs. C. Critch, grandmother of the bride graced the bride's table. After the traditional cutting, Mrs. Wesley Thorne of New Waterford completed the cutting of the wedding cakes, which were served by the bride and groom. Earl Head was master of ceremonies. Grace was offered by Mrs. Captain Lillian Jewer, aunt of the groom, the toast to the bride was proposed by Capt. Sol Jewer and responded to by the groom. Telegrams from Calgary and Ontario were read by the best man. The closing prayer was by Capt. Ralph Sexton of Newfoundland.

For a wedding trip to Prince Edward Island, the bride travelled in a lime green linen suit with white accessories and a corsage of yellow and white carnations. Mrs. Lieut. Jewer, before her marriage was stationed with the Salvation Army.

Memorial mass

A memorial mass in rememberance of Rev. Emidio J. D'Intino will be celebratd at Holy Redeemer Church, Thursday, Nov. 13 at 7 p.m. with Most Rev. William E. Power, Bishop of Antigonish, presiding.

D'Intino

Fr. D'Intino was born in Sydney and was the son of the late Joseph and Angela (Jacobita) D'Intino. He died in Lynnwood, California, Oct. 8.

He served as assistant parish priest at St. Anthony's Parish, Glace Bay; St. Agnes Parish, New Waterford and parish priest at St. Nicholas Parish, Sydney.

Former parishioners and friends are invited to attend the memorial mass.

It's motive is to get young people thinking about the value of human life. It's incentive is money and it's goal is to hold such an event on an annual basis.
